Risk Management Capability Statement

At Business Improvement Advisory, we understand the many and varied risks businesses face on a daily basis. The Australian standard (AS/NZS ISO 31000:2009, Risk Management) defines risk as ‘the chance of something happening that will have an impact on objectives’. Therefore, the types of risk you face will be specific to your business and its objectives. Generally, they relate to the seven main areas in business: financial, operational, environmental, security, legal, strategic and information.

With our client-focused approach we can help you develop a thorough understanding of your business risk situation and the areas where you may need support. Having the correct advice is vital and our industry experienced team can assist in identifying and managing risk in your business.

Business Improvement Advisory builds client relationships based on understanding and trust. With coaching and training we can assist you to deliver successful risk management solutions. For more information on how Business Improvement Advisory can manage risk in your business, contact us:
